About the Herbert Smith Freehills - SMU Asian Arbitration Lecture Series

The Herbert Smith Freehills - SMU Asian Arbitration Lecture Series was established in 2010 and was made possible by a term fund contribution by Herbert Smith Freehills.

The objective of the Lecture Series is to promote collaborative forms of dispute resolution and access to justice and in so doing promote Singapore as the centre for dispute resolution in Asia, particularly in arbitration and mediation.

Each year, a distinguished international arbitrator will be invited to present this lecture, which in turn will be published in a leading regional arbitration journal.

About the Organisers

Dispute Resolution Initiative

The SMU Dispute Resolution Initiative was established by the School of Law in late 2008. One of the objectives in establishing the Initiative is to provide a vehicle for research and teaching across the range of “alternative” dispute resolution procedures with a mandate is to foster research and teaching activities across all the Schools and Departments at SMU, particularly as a number of academics in all Schools have been identified with research interests in dispute resolution.

The wider mandate of the Initiative will be to work with practitioners and professionals in dispute resolution, particularly arbitration and mediation, and to foster the objective of the Singapore Academy of Law and of the Government in promoting Singapore as the dispute resolution resource for the region.

In addition to research and teaching, the further objective of the Initiative will be to collaborate with university, professional, governmental, non-governmental and inter-governmental agencies in the promotion of effective, collaborative forms of dispute resolution and access to justice.

The Initiative is headed by Practice Associate Professor Ian Macduff from the School of Law at SMU. Professor Macduff is a professional mediator and negotiator, with over 30 years of experience in this field. He has practised in negotiation and cross-cultural conflict resolution, being actively involved in training and capacity building in a number of countries.

Synopsis of Lecture & Download Paper

MULTIPLE PROCEEDINGS IN INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION

In recent years, we have seen a dramatic increase of situations in which two or more proceedings are brought in different fora to seek reparation for the same illicit conduct and often the same economic harm. What are the causes for this evolution? How should it be assessed from a policy perspective? What procedural tools are available to handle these situations? The lecture will show that the existing tools do not work to deal with the causes identified and explore more promising avenues.

Following the presentation, the Managing Partner of Herbert Smith Freehills Singapore and Head of International Arbitration Practice Southeast Asia, Mr Alastair Henderson will be following up with a commentary of the presentation.
