Synopsis

The SMU-Cambridge Roundtable on Corporate Insolvency Law is an initiative jointly organized by the Singapore Management University's Centre for Cross-Border Commercial Law in Asia and the University of Cambridge's Centre for Corporate and Commercial Law with the purpose of analysing current trends and future challenges in corporate insolvency law around the world. It seeks to serve as a global forum for the discussion of corporate insolvency law from a comparative, interdisciplinary, practical and policy-oriented perspective to gain new insights and contribute to improving the design and application of corporate insolvency law.

The first SMU-Cambridge Roundtable on Corporate Insolvency Law will take place in Singapore on 5 April 2019 and it will focus on regulatory competition and insolvency reforms, with particular emphasis on the new restructuring frameworks proposed or implemented in Singapore, the United Kingdom, and the European Union. It will also analyse the challenges of insolvency law in emerging markets, as well as the promises and perils of the US Chapter 11, which seems to be influencing many insolvency reforms around the world. The event will bring together experts from several jurisdictions, including policy-makers, leading practitioners, and law and finance scholars from the United Kingdom, Continental Europe, Latin America, Asia, and the United States.

Speakers

Andrés F. Martinez is a senior financial sector specialist for the World Bank Group's Finance, Competitiveness and Innovation Global Practice. Since 2011 Andres has been advising several countries on debt-resolution reform, including on insolvency systems and debt recovery in Eastern Europe and Central Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. In his current position, he leads the dialogue with several governments on technical issues related to debt resolution and insolvency. Andres is a lawyer by training with over 15 years of experience and a Magister in corporate law. He joined the World Bank Group in 2008 to lead the Insolvency indicator of the World Bank-IFC Doing Business project. Before joining the World Bank Group, Andres worked as senior associate at the restructuring and litigation department of a top Argentine law firm in Buenos Aires for over 6 years, where he advised clients like Citibank, Visa, Unilever and other large domestic and international corporations in secured transactions, debt enforcement, restructurings and liquidations.

Stephen Bull is an Associate Professor of Law (Practice) at Singapore Management University, where he teaches corporate and insolvency law. Before joining SMU, he was a partner at Linklaters. He practiced corporate law in Singapore, London and New York. He holds a Master of Laws (LLM) from Harvard Law School, a Bachelor of Arts (BA) and Bachelor of Laws (LLB) from Victoria University of Wellington. He is a Solicitor (England & Wales), Attorney-at-law (New York) and Barrister and Solicitor (New Zealand). His current areas of research include corporate law and corporate insolvency law.

Wan Wai Yee is Dean for Postgraduate Research Programmes at Singapore Management University. Concurrently, she is Professor of Law and Lee Kong Chian Fellow. She has previously served in various administrative capacities at SMU, both at University and School-levels, including as Academic Director, Faculty Affairs at the Office of Provost, Associate Dean for Teaching and Curriculum at the School of Law, and the Deputy Director of Centre for Cross-Border Commercial Law in Asia. She graduated with an LLB (First Class Honours) from the National University of Singapore. She also holds a BCL from the University of Oxford, where she was in residence at St Edmund Hall. Immediately prior to joining academia in late 2005, she was a partner at Allen & Gledhill, where she practised in mergers and acquisitions and equity capital markets. Her main areas of research are in corporate law, mergers and acquisitions, securities regulation and global restructuring and insolvency. Her research work centres on the optimal legal institutions and governance framework in order for securities markets to flourish. She has a particular interest in Asian securities markets and why the solutions to corporate governance issues and securities market integration in the West (the United Kingdom (UK) and the United States (US)) may not be ideal as a basis of global best practice or may not work as intended in Asia. Her articles have been published or accepted in international peerreviewed legal journals, including Journal of Empirical Legal Studies, European Business Organisations Law Review, Journal of Corporate Law Studies, Journal of Business Law, Company and Securities Law Journal and Lloyds' Maritime and Commercial Law Quarterly. She has received external research grants and research awards and fellowships for her publication record, including the Lee Kuan Yew Fellowship for Research Excellence (2015-2016), the Lee Kong Chian Fellowship (2015-2019), Hauser Global Research Fellowship by NYU (2008), and the Lee Foundation Fellowship for Research Excellence (2007). Her research findings have been relied on in consultation papers involving law and regulatory reforms locally and internationally. She is on the editorial boards of Australian Journal of Corporate Law and Company Lawyer and she has served on national committees relating to law reform and policy.
